

Spring regional workshop: Heritage University- March 13, 2019

What are the key strategies for helping low-income, Native, and students of color on their journey as they consider issues they want to tackle, who they want to become, and how they'll get there

Cultivate Career Explorations & Connections Through Engaged Industry Partners	Facilitate Inclusive Family Engagement	Increasing Diversity of Staff and Understanding Multiculturalism	Provide K-12 exposure to post-secondary Pathway	Cultivate an identity through education and training	Integrating social emotional learning (SEL) through K-12	Providing inclusive and comprehensive support and resources
Bringing career pathways to school	Early parent engagement	Intentional awareness of culture and family	Expose student's values and interest for possible pathways	Who am I? (Good fit)	Fostering Growth mindset (life skills)	Provide visual academic road maps and student support services
Employer and career connections	Engage families throughout the journey	Culturally responsive training	Reframe career questions- age appropriate	Connect with the person to effectively reach the student	Embed SEL into K-12	Maximize community support and resources
Expose local, highly skilled job opportunities	Inclusive parent outreach	Hire diverse staff to represent student population	Think outside the 8am-3pm box	Talk about education/training as a journey vs. destination	Failure is a part of learning	Increase understanding of postsecondary funding options
						Access to college and career to the community
						Inclusive of post high school options
						Uniform model and consistent messaging
						All inclusive information (translations, etc.)
